The European Commission, the European Parliament and EU leaders have agreed upon a recovery plan that will help the European Union repair the socio-economic damage caused by the coronavirus health emergency and lay the foundations to make the economies and societies of European countries more sustainable, resilient and prepared for the challenges and opportunities of the ecological and digital transition: an investment in the future of Europe and its Member States to restart after the Covid-19 emergency.

With the start of the 2021-2027 programming period and the targeted reinforcement of the EU's long-term budget, the focus is now on the new Cohesion Policy and on NextGenerationEU, a €750 billion temporary financial instrument designed to stimulate a “sustainable, uniform, inclusive and equitable recovery” to enable meeting unexpected needs. It is the largest ever EU-funded package aimed at boosting the economy.

The whole initiative of the European Commission relies on three pillars:

1. Supporting Member States for investments and reforms
2. Boosting the EU economy by stimulating private investment
3. Drawing lessons from the crisis.

This is the context for the National Recovery and Resilience Plan, the tool that outlines the objectives, reforms and investments that Italy intends to implement through NextGenerationEU funds to mitigate the socio-economic impact of the pandemic and make Italy a fairer, greener and more inclusive country, with a more competitive, dynamic and innovative economy.

The actions are designed to overcome the socio-economic impact of the Covid-19 pandemic and build a new Italy, equipping it with the necessary tools to face the environmental, technological and social challenges of both today and tomorrow.

The Plan is broken down into 6 Missions, which cover the structural “thematic” areas of intervention.

1. Digitalisation, innovation, competitiveness, culture, and tourism
2. Green revolution and ecological transition
3. Sustainable mobility infrastructure
4. Education and Research
5. Inclusion and Cohesion
6. Health.

On 15 December 2021, the European Commission launched the Recovery and Resilience Scoreboard, a public online platform to track progress in the implementation of the whole Recovery and Resilience Facility \(RRF\) and individual national recovery plans.

The Recovery and Resilience Scoreboard website includes sections on the achievement of the Facility's targets and objectives and disbursements. Furthermore, it provides specific data compiled by the European Commission – e.g. expenditure by sector, and a breakdown of green, digital and social expenditure under the Facility. The Scoreboard also provides qualitative information through thematic analyses of plan implementation within specific policy areas.

To access NextGenerationEU resources, Member States are called upon to define their national recovery plans, which will entitle them to receive funds under the RRF.

ITALY's National Recovery and Resilience Plan

On 5 May 2021, the text of the National Recovery and Resilience Plan submitted by the Italian Government to the European Commission – titled "Italia Domani" (Italy Tomorrow) – was published on the website of the Presidency of the Council of Ministers. The Plan's budget amounts to overall €235 billion, including both European and national resources.

On 22 June 2021, the European Commission published the proposal for a Council implementing decision, providing an overall positive assessment of Italy's National Recovery and Resilience Plan. The proposal is complemented with a detailed analysis of the Plan (EC Working Document) – The European Commission approves Italy's EUR 191.5 billion National Recovery and Resilience Plan.

On 13 July 2021, Italy's Plan was definitively approved via Council Implementing Decision, which transposed the European Commission's proposal. Attached to the Decision is an extensive annex (in Italian) defining, in relation to each investment and reform, precise objectives and targets as well as their related timeframes. Successful and timely achievement is necessary in order to receive, on a six-month basis, the allocated resources.
